CAUGHT CODFISH WEIGHING 90 LBS.

Sch. W. M. Goodspeed, Capt. George Perry arriving at T wharf, Boston, yesterday, brought in a mammoth cod, which weighed 65 pounds when dressed. It was the largest fish seen at T wharf for a long time and before being dressed would probably have tipped the scales at 90 pounds. It was taken on the trawl on Middle Bank two days ago and was as long as the average man, requiring two men to hold it up. The fish had several fish hooks inside of it, showing that he had escaped capture several times.

BIG PACIFIC HALIBUT CATCH

The halibut market was in a very much demoralized condition last month, due mainly to the large catches landed and the consequent low prices realized. So far this year the catch has been extraordinarily large as compared with the same period of 1913. The total receipts of halibut in Seattle in January and February, 1913, were 2,874,250 pounds, while during the corresponding period of 1914 the catch landed at Seattle amounted to 5,011,750 pounds, an increase of 2,137,500 pounds. Unusual quantities of fish are also being landed at Prince Rupert and Vancouver, and as a considerable quantity of this fish is landed in eastern market in competition with Seattle fish, it has helped very materially in forcing down the price paid the fishermen.

The frozen fish market is in an even more demoralized condition than the fresh market, as the large quantities literally hurled at the market by packers who had to realize on their holdings, coming in conjunction with the big catch of fresh halibut, caused a great drop in the selling price of frozen fish.

MOTOR BOATS INCREASE AT N. F.

There is going to be a big increase in the number of motor boats to be used next summer, and in some harbors along the coast, practically every fisherman will have one, says the St. John's, N. F., Trade Review. Takeout Petty Harbor for instance, which is a typical fishing village, we hear that there will be fifty motor boats plying out of that harbor next summer. The increase in the number of motor boats is due, first to the fact that their usefulness has been demonstrated, and second, to the substitution of engines for gasoline engines, whereby the price of the oil that may be used is reduced to one-third the old price. The removal of the duty on motor boat oil by the Morris Government, is very much appreciated by the fishermen of the country.

Sch. Knickerbocker Fitted With Union Engines.

The New England Fish Company has recently installed in its new schooner Knickerbocker, which recently reached here from the Atlantic coast, two 80 horse power Union engines, to replace the engines originally put in the vessel.

Yarmouth Fish Notes.

There is still a great dearth of fish news at Yarmouth, the only arrival recently being the American sch. Angie B. Watson which landed 836 pounds of halibut Friday. It was sold to the Consumers' and by them disposed of locally.
